John Wanoa President of the Confederation of Chiefs Natives of New Zealand

Lately some people have asked me what happens if I die and who is going to take over the Company Business. This upset me very much as I worked for years to set up the business with many important people I respect first and for people to come out of nowhere to takeover after joining the business in a short time was too much for me not to consider other options that I will leave to people other than my own family or someone who can direct my life's work and so my old International Lawyer Mr You Taek Choi recommend I go see his Lawyer friend Edwin who we shall refer to as Mr E. I met with Mr E and he explained to me, the safest way to keep things in check is to set up an IBC Account in Singapore, to Draw Down Funds that will go directly into my IBC Company in Singapore who will then distribute these Funds to my Principle Company Na Atua E Wa Aotea Limited in New Zealand who will then Distribute these Funds to all Corresponding Companies that I have an Alliance Partnership with, who will have Total Autonomy Funding Expertise for Project Development help in New Zealand, Via Na Atua E Wa Aotea Limited Holding Parent Company.

It cost me $33,000 to set this up this IBC International Business Company in Singapore in which I have a Total of $28,000 pledged, so I require another $5000.

Thank you

John Wanoa
